Do The Right Thing Essay

When I think of violence I think of people who are doing bad stuff. But the real definition of violence is the use of force in a way that harms a person or property. There's violence in every country, it's like around the whole world. My parents and I came from Haiti, where there are a lot of violence but in my life I never witness violence in my life, and it's something that I never want to witness or face. There's many reasons for a person to be really violent. One can be because of drugs, and another one can be jealousy.

In my life I've never witness a violence, and it never happen to me, I feel really lucky for that. I listen to news on the radio about violence that's happening in a lot of neighborhoods. Some students even have a lot of violence. But at my school the students are just disrespectful, some of them but they are not violence. In Haiti where I came from, there's a lot of violence also, even little kids are doing violence too. For them they think it's a really good things to do, but in reality it's not. They might think violence is bringing them somewhere really good, but it's not, the only place it's gonna bring them is in jail, which is a bad place for someone to be.

When it come to violence, there's many causes that can cause violence in this world. But from a lot of people who don't know that, from all the causes I will choose the most popular reason that causes violence, which is drugs. A lot of people think only men do violence, and most of them are black. But in my mind I think that's not true women also in violence and drugs also. I choose drug as the most popular reason that cause violence because I hear that when someone is under drugs or take drug that person don't really know what they are doing.

No alone can't stop violence, but when we all work together as one we can stop it. And if the mayor build more community center that could change it. So more program in almost every neighborhood. Some people don't have somewhere to go during the day, and they'll start to do violence. Some others don't have a job, some of them it's just the devil. And on sundays they can do more sundays bible school, and do lots of church program.

In conclusion, there's a lot of violence in this world, but if we work together and pray a lot things could change. And by doing a lot of just activity, I think that can stop violence. Violence is not good at all, it's something that should stop around the world.
