My closest friend has been shot in the head walking to his friend's house. My uncle's friend also got shot a week ago on his head from his two years old son's godfather. It's sad how a father isn't going to be around to see his son grow up and be a great father like he was. There's not a lot of people that you can trust now a days. He was a great guy, didn't do drugs and wasn't into violence, but sadly he's now gone. He got killed for knowing a secret about some one. Violence is never the answer, but some people make it seem as if it is the answer to all your problems. I believe my teachers, that there are more black people in jail, than there are at school sitting in their seat learning. Violence is like a bad weather, coming and taking people's lifesp. What's so cool about violence and drugs? Violence is the reason that most teens are acting stupid and thinking they're cool because they smoke. Violence comes in many forms and all of them are painful.

Violence has affected my life by making me worrried and scared. The scary thoughts flowing in my brain. Questions coming through my head. What's going to happen? I'm not that straight A's and B's girl. Now I'm an A, B, C, D and F girl. I don't want to be this girl. I started out good and than BOOM, some one I love is now dead. I think about my past, I want to change myself but what can I do if every time I'm trying to change, some one dies. I'm not the lucky girl any more. I want to stay in school and get good grades. Violence is now in my head disconnecting my brain cells and changing them around. Violence is not only hurting me but my whole family. My mom asks me "What happened to my little girl." I just think about it and she's right, what happened to me? VIOLENCE.

Bullying just had to come into people's lifes. It's mostly hurting my friend. She gets bullied every single day when she goes to school. She's a very pretty brazilian girl and there's nothing wrong with her. They just be messing with her for no reason, they be calling her names. I haven't been bullied but I know how the kids feel being bullied every single day they get into school or around the neighborhood. Why is that people have to have their feelings crushed into tiny pieces. Why can’t every one just hold hands and be cool with one another. No need to be friends but at least not enemy. Violence happens for different reasons. But I think it happens mostly because of jealousy. Every one should be themselves and like what they got or don’t got. You should never mess with some one elses life. Some kids are killing them self because of them hating how they are being hurt every single day.

If violence ever happens infront of me, I would run like I had never run. I would also ask for help because I don’t want to change even more than I already did. I would try to call the police and try to help that person but hoping that I don’t get hurt. I would tell the school counsiler about kids in school that are bringing drugs or weapon to school. I don’t want to be too late because sometimes if you don’t tell, you or your friends or any body might get hurt. I also think that some kids don’t say nothin because its their friends or because they are scared to tell and get caught and be hurt by that person but most of the time you’ll need to tell to help some one and help that person change the way they are.

In my conclusion, violence should really be stopped. Its hurting millions and millions of people specially me. I hate seeing people crying because they have lost some that was so important to them. I ahev lost lots of people that I love. When I see some one cry it makes me cry. I’m going to help my little brother so that when he gets older, he wont act like the teens that rae smoking. I don’t them to be on drugs. God bless every one.
