Youth violence has affected my community in many different ways. In my neighborhood a family got shot by a guy who came to their house for drugs. He shot a mother and her young son. There are other incidents at my school where kids get into small fights over things like "if my, see say." Youth violence can also happen by the situation that the person is living in. If a person is living in an abusive household they can take their anger out in different ways.

Violence has affected my life at school and at home. When I first went to this school my mom wanted me to go to a different school because there was too many fights at first. Luckily we got a new principle and the discipline is different. Youth violence has also affected my life because when the family got shot I was scared that something like that could happen to my family or to my friends. Youth violence also affected my life at school in many different ways. At school you have to choose your friends wisely. You want to choose friends who don't get into drama every single day. You don't want friends who try to bring you down. These are some ways that youth violence has affected my school. Youth violence has also affected my school in different ways also because we have to have school police officer patrol the hallways to make sure nothing happens. Our vice principal always have to give out suspension letters and always have to meet with students parents because they get into fights to often.
At my school there has been fights between best friends over "he say, she say." This is how youth violence affects my school. Youth violence can affect a person by the situation that they are living in. If a person is living in an abusive situation they might have to express their anger so they could resort to violence. If a person is living in an abusive household it can lead them to bad things in life. But not always. People who live in abusive situations might not have to go through a whole bad life because they lived in an abusive house hold.

There are many things that you can do to stop youth violence. We can encourage people who are involved in youth violence to talk to a counselor or a mentor. To stop youth violence we can All stay out of Drama. Don't rely on what you hear from other people. When something bad might happen you should get an adult involved so the can resolve the problem. These are some ways that we can stop youth violence.
Youth violence has affected my community in many different ways. In my neighborhood a family get shot by a guy who comes to their house for drugs. He shot a mother and her young son. There are other incidents at my school were kids get into small fights over things like "He says, she says." Youth violence can also happen by the situation that the person is living in. If a person is living in an abusive household they can take their anger out in different ways.

Violence has affected my life at school and at home. When I first went to this school my mom wanted me to go to a different school because there was too many fights at first. Luckily we got a new principle and the discipline is different. Youth violence has also affected my life because when the family got shot I was blamed that something like that could happen to my family or to my friends. Youth violence has also affected my life at school in many different ways. At school you have to choose your friends wisely. You want to choose friends who don't get into trouble every single day. You don't want friends who try to bring you down. These are some ways that youth violence has affected my school. Youth violence has also affected my school in different ways also because we have to have a school police officer that in the hallway to make sure nothing happens. Our new principle always have to give out suspension letters and always have to meet with students parents because they get into fights to often.
At my school there has been fights between best friends over "he say she say." This is how youth violence affects my school. Youth violence can affect a person by the situation that they are living in. If a person is living in an abusive situation they might have to express their anger so they could resort to violence. If a person is living in an abusive household it can lead them to bad things in life. But not always. People who live in abusive situations might not have to go through a whole bad life because they lived in an abusive household.

The are many things that you can do to stop youth violence. We can encourage people who are involved in youth violence to talk to a counselor or a mentor. To stop youth violence we can All stay out of Drama. Don't rely on what you hear from other people. When something bad might happen you should get an adult involved so the can resolve the problem. These are some ways that we can stop youth violence