YOUTH VIOLENCE

What is youth violence? Well youth violence is for example young people committing crimes, youth being victimized. There are a lot more for example minors doing crimes, teens killing one another, young people selling drugs at the corner, vandalism, and fighting. These examples of youth violence can occur anywhere. It can occur in school, at home, and on the streets.

What are the causes of youth violence? Well the causes of youth violence are drugs, gangs, jealousy, drama, bullying, death, racism, and teen pregnancy. When there is violence these are some of the things you will see. Many youths get involved in those crimes sometimes for no reason at all. Sometimes it may be because they experience violence themselves.

What are the effects of youth violence? Well the effect of youth violence is anger, imprisonment, pain of relatives, and more violence. This is bad because you were angry and beat up a girl/boy then he/she comes back and beats you up because you already beat her/him up when you were angry. This anger can be really bad if youth do not try to control their anger, they can end up in prison or loosing their life.

What can I do to stop youth violence? Well we can call a police, tell someone, walk away, stay off the streets, and find more productive things to do, sports, and more. So those are something’s you can do instead of doing bad things like fighting. Sometimes calling the police can be scary because you are afraid of snitching, however you can do so anonymously.
