STOP THE VIOLENCE!

Haven`t you ever wondered what violence can do to your life? Have you ever thought of stopping it? Well I sure have, and because of violence in my community and my life, my daily life has changed by being less confident and being depressed. The causes of youth violence are very severe and terrible; however I plan to stop it by joining a club or a campaign to stop youth violence.

Violence has affected my life in many ways. Most of the violence doesn`t occur to me but to my community which is really bad. Because my community has some youth violence it affects me a lot. I always feel sad and depressed when seeing youth violence right in front of me and I can`t do anything about it. Since I believe I can`t do anything about it I sometimes feel like I have low confidence in myself. Some of the violence I see are threatening, bullying, and yelling. Those I violence I see are sometimes in school, and in the streets outside. Even though in my community occurs the most violence some violence also occurs to me. In school since I try to get good grades people sometimes call me “nerd”. However that rarely happens but when it does I feel very sad and unhappy. That is how violence affects me in my daily life.
Youth violence is mostly caused by bullying, threatening, and teasing. Youth violence happens in many places like in school or in the streets. In school the most common youth violence are bullying and teasing. Kids especially boys think they’re really tough and popular start to show off a lot. The easiest way they could show that is by bullying the unpopular kids who look weak. Then that kid would feel very miserable and sad all the time for no reason. Another type of youth violence that could happen somewhere is threatening youths. It could happen almost anywhere in the streets or at or at home. Threatening is a very dangerous type of youth violence. Threatening could end up to many deaths of youth. It could end up that way because the youth might not do what the other person wants them to do so they might kill them or something in that way. Those were some things that could cause youth violence.

I can help change youth violence by being in club or campaign that stops youth violence. I would go to a club or a campaign to stop violence because then I would learn how to prevent youth violence from happening. I would also probably learn how to help people who are having difficulty with violence. I would also hang up posters in my school so people could see how serious youth violence is. It will also help many young people be happy and not be a sad and unhappy with their lives. Also if I persuade others to do the same thing I am doing to stop the violence everyone could probably be happy without having to worry about anything. With everyone happy that will mean youth violence won’t exist anymore. That is how I will prevent youth violence from happening.
Youth violence has affected me and my daily life by making me feel depressed and have low confidence. Youth violence is also caused by many things like bullying, and I plan to stop it by joining a club or a campaign. By doing that I could help some youths who are having trouble with violence to stop it. I am going to do something about youth violence, are you?
