What is violence? Do you know? Has it happen to you? It must be hard. Everyone goes through this, you might not but some people do, it's okay you always have someone there that loves you, helps you, supports you and cares about you! Let me show you what I have to say about violence.

Violence has affected many lives, even if I haven't experience it my community has. I don't know how it feels but I do know many people wish they never gone threw this. But it's not something that we pick, it just happens. Once a friend of mine went threw this, her parents always fought, but she was suffering, even if she couldn't say nothing, the only thing she could do was run to me! It's like if we were family, but we weren't, maybe people that go threw this, pretend their happy, but know that they need someone out there to help them even if it is just for a moment it helps. really. It's not happen to me but still is in my life!
What are the causes of youth violence?

In a human life, there are lots of causes about violence. You might think it's just sadness, harbored, but there are violence. It's like having symptoms, weird right! The causes of youth violence can be anything, stress, pressure, mean, sad, dumb, pranked, they are so many. Why? Many people wonder why? Does this happen to me? It's like your being bullied, not thinking can't run away, fight for pride. But violence isn't having pride; it's hoping sadness, meaness, you can't even imagine how it feels like because you never been through it.

What can I do about youth violence?

Violence is where everybody does something their not suppose to; they didn't do it, but sometimes it just happens and maybe again and again. A lot of people try to stop this but you sometimes can't. But if you could, I would go to foundations, family, support, communities, friends, and more, just believe you can do it, you can!
Violence happens in the world, don't be scared, just fight it. It will be alright! Okay, don't be scared. Violence might happen in your life, but don't look down just what you need is support and pride. Remember your circle is full of support, go tall be one of us that will be high, just you hold on.
