Do the “write” thing essay

I remember when I was walking home with my cousin, and I saw two boys fighting. While they were fighting one of the boy’s pulled out a gun and took a deadly aim at his standing victim. In an instant the poor guy was gone. When the other guys heard the police coming, they ran. That moment I felt scared and the only thing that I could taste was fear. When I got home I was still scared.

Youth violence and drugs has affected my life by making me feel unsafe when I’m walking home from school. For example one night I was in my room looking out the window and I saw police surrounding the street. I felt unsafe at that moment because somebody got shot inside the building right next to mine. I felt afraid because nothing like that ever happen in my life. After all that I have seen I believe that violence is bad.

I think the cause of youth violence is that easy accessibility to handgun. I think that’s the cause of youth because some kids under 18 have gun. I think that’s the cause of youth violence because when kids have problem with each other and they don’t know how to solve it they killed each other. I think that mental issue is also one of the causes of youth violence. For example that guy in Connecticut he had mental issues and it cause him to kill a lot of people.

One thing that I could do about youth violence and drugs is avoiding it. Another thing I could do about youth violence and drugs is setting a good example for my sisters. These are the thing I could do about youth violence and drugs, because it something that happens throws out the world. I’m just a kid and violence and drugs is too big for me to put a stop to it. Violence and drugs is a big problem because it something that happen everyday and it destroying the world we live in today.

In conclusion, after all that I have seen youth violence and drugs is deceptively the world. In my personal life youth violence and drugs has affected my life by making me feel unsafe at night. Youth violence and drug make me feel unsafe at night because something is always going on outside. One thing that I could do about youth violence and drugs is avoiding it and set a good example for my sisters.
These are things that I could about youth violence and drugs because they are a big problem that happens everyday where I live.
