Do the right thing...

What is violence? Well violence is being destructive, abusive or having anger. My definition of violence is being physical with your hands and or body. Being abusive in anyway is violence. Putting your hands on people, touching them or bullying them is also violence. Bullying is violence is violence because pushing people around or making them feel scared to even go to class is violence. Bullying and harassment are the number one hated things in the world. Harassing someone is when you talk to them sexually; I also think that harassment is violence. One last thing about violence is that the use of brute strength to cause harm to a person or property. Violence is like hurting your loved ones because you’re showing them that you’re not going to have respect for a family then your family shouldn’t have respect for you. Violence is something that can affect your daily life in a negative way. Violence surrounds us daily even when you don’t realize it. We see violence on television most of the times we don’t think its violence but it is types of violence are physical and mental.

How has violence affected my life? My life has been affected with violence by watching it happen to other people. The reason why violence has affected my life by watching other people get hurt is because the world is filled with wonderful people and some are just not. My life would be affected by men. These days there are many sexual predators. Some people have there days when they just want to let there anger out. Well there is a friend of mine who has been abused by men. Just thinking about it makes me sick. For some reason I wish there was away that I could make those men get pay back. You may see men as nice and more but what you don’t know is there other half. Violence is not something that you could do and then look back to have a laugh. Violence has affected my life in many ways it has made me afraid to do certain things. Violence has also caused a lot of hurt too many family members. Violence has also affected my life because it has shoed me to the cruel side of the world and how scary and dangerous it can be out there.

What are the causes of youth violence? The causes of youth violence are gangs, guns, drugs and many more. When you’re in a gang your thinking that you run the world, but you don’t. Another cause of youth violence is getting people killed. Sometimes a gang may have war by the cause of one disliking another. I think that being in a gang is compared to gun violence and drug violence. Getting into fights, selling drugs and having guns are like people with no sense. If there was away to stop youth violence then there should be a type of program that you can earn money and learn how to respect one another. Many times youth violence is caused by hatred towards one another, racism, and jealousy, bullying and even relationship problems. Things that can be done about youth violence is that if you see it try to stay out of it and if not get involves or try to get help tell an adult. Talk to the person and tell them all the consequences that you can face. Maybe creating a program to try to stop it, a website, print out papers and hang them around your neighborhood. And most important be a positive influence.
