Do the write thing

What is violence? Violence is what effects people everyday. Different moods could cause all types of violence. Everyday you could see violence almost anywhere. Violence is when someone doesn’t like another person or more it could also be because of what something else and that person decides to take it out on them self or someone else. Violence could be known as war or probably bullying cyber bullying.

What are the causes of youth violence? There are many different things that can cause violence. Some things that can cause it are video game, television; it could also be caused by other people who start problems as well. First video games can hypnotize people in thinking of murder and such. It makes kids think that some things are ok. Also Television is just sometimes too intense for some people. This is mostly the reason why everything has a rating such as pg and pg-13 and what not. Children aren’t born violent it’s just the way that their raised and how they learn from others and what they do. There are 10 top things that cause violence and they are the media, abuse, gangs, unemployment, weapons obviously, poverty, peer pressure, broken homes, poor family environment or it could also be an bad neighborhood.

It is very common nowadays to hear news about teenagers or high school students taking part in brutal killings, homicide, murder or even suicide. However I think youth violence is not restricted to such things. Bullying for example happens every day in almost every school in this country. The very fact that violence is becoming more widespread in our time is enough reason for us to identify and understand the main reasons behind such violence. The environment where a person grows up plays a major factor in anyone’s participation with violence. I believe that a person can be directly influenced to do violent acts if they’ve witnessed or experienced it on a personal level. If a child grows up in an environment where violence seems to be a normal part of daily life, then it is almost certain that the child will adapt the same tendency to engage in violent acts.
For example, if a boy often sees his father hurting his mother, this could lead to two things.

What can I do to help stop youth violence? There is a numerous number of things I could do to stop youth violence. One thing I could probably do is protest against it and hold a rally maybe. Somehow people need to recognize that they’re in a dysfunctional relationship and agree not to have children and subject them to that sort of an environment. Children and their parents need to really bond; the children need to see where the real values in life lie, instead of deciding that life sucks and sinking so low as to use violence to channel that frustration. Are there "bad seeds"? Yes, probably. But our prisons are full of unwanted, psychologically twisted people coming from a dysfunctional family background. So what I am saying is parents needed to keep their children protected and make sure they never become an subject to any thing violently graphic like this.
