Violence

Violence affect our daily lives by not having the freedom to be free. Now we suffer of violence because of increased crime and violence against people. Violence has affected the way we live. People in the past could have the freedom to go out and have fun without any fear. But today people can't enjoy that kind of freedom because of violence. We have learned to entertain ourselves by other ways. For example communicate through the new forms of media. I think violence happens because people in desperate situation feel they don't have anywhere to get help from, so they get frustrated and the only outlet they have is violence.

Some causes of youth violence are gangs, weapons, poverty, and ignorance. Also drugs can be a dangerous part of violence. It could be that people who feel lost and forgotten may turn to violence. But they don't see that what they're doing has many consequences until it's too late.

As an individual what I can do to reduce youth violence is by talking to my friends and family about how violence affects us. If I share my thoughts with others I could persuade them about not having more violence in this world. At the end they can also have the same thoughts as me. But one thing that is true is that violence is not the answer, neither the key to any problem. People should not be afraid to ask for the help they need. I as a friend, I give support to those who need it either if they need to let off steam or anyone who needs to let out their sorrows. If any of my friends need me they know that I'm always going to be there for them whether they need me in good times or bad times.
