Violence has effected my life in a few ways. Violence shows me what not to do and how not to live and what the consequences will be if I do those bad actions. It has shown me how it can effect someone’s life and how it can lead you to a bad life. There is violence in the cartoons kids watch and they are influenced by that. Adults should really take caution in what their children are watching because it can teach them bad things and it can effect their way of living.

The causes of youth violence is that if a child experiences the violence on the television or internet it can effect their way of life and can effect their future and their actions. Youth violence is going to effect a lot of young people if we do not take action in not exposing it to the kids or it will bring its consequences. I wonder if the people on the news who has committed crimes, did something effect them when they were younger or what caused them to become this way? I have noticed that every time I go on the internet I always see on the home page something bad like a killer or a shooting or a robbery and its is shown to everyone every where you cant hide it from the kids.

Something’s we can do about youth violence is that we take caution in what kids are watching on TV and what they see on the internet. On the TV the adults can block some channels that have violence in them so the kids don’t watch that show. You can also see what the kids are on in the internet so they wont see violence on the internet. You always have to take caution in what the youth can be exposed to so they wouldn’t be effected by it.

In conclusion violence is a very bad thing and we don’t want the youth to be exposed to it because we don’t want to steer them to the wrong direction which is a bad future. We should always take caution in violence and we should keep it from happening more than it already is.
