How has violence affected my life? It’s affected because people have been dying and it sad. It has made me stay in the house or I ask my mom if she can drive me to school. There is other reason people die because of shooting and other kind of violence’s. I can be afraid sometime in school and when I leave.

I saw in the news that a guy killed a little girl because the girl was protecting her mother. The little girl died and the guy was her actual father. This made me feel upset, depressed and angry because what kind of father could do that to his own child. I also don’t understand why the mother didn’t leave the father earlier because something like this doesn’t just happen once. Parents shouldn’t get angry just because they broke up, they should call the police or move somewhere where the father doesn’t know. They should have had cameras so they can see exactly where he is and call the police quickly so they can take him.

What is the cause of youth violence? Some people are killers, bullies and use drugs. I don’t know any other but there is more. I can name a list of the causes. When the girl broke up with the boys and the boys get mad and kill the girl it makes me feel upset and sad because a lot more people seem to be dying. Bullies cause youth violence by putting their hands on someone which is abuse and by picking on other peoples, they also call names and take peoples lunches and money and drop books on the floor. People use drugs a lot and need to be careful. When people are on drugs it causes head trauma and makes them act like a different person. They also look ugly and disgusting. People on drugs are more likely to rob and steal from other people and commit other crimes.

What can I do to stop the violence? Well, I can call 911 or tell the teacher and tell a friend. A guy tries to kill the girl, but she called 911 and then they come and take him away I’m happy that she called a long time. I feel that so good, happy and other Elsa. Sometime people are safe if they have a phone and call 911 ever fast, but sometime they go slow and they don’t make it on time. The police do every thing so they can get the person that try to kill them and they keep us safe because it’s their job. The police try to help the people that need some help or something Elsa, and police can put something in the house that keep you safe and sound. This is what I can do that people cant get hurt and missing. I cry to keep my mom and my brother and sister safe so they don’t have to die and they don’t have to be missing. This is how I keep my families safe.
