Rakim Omar "Do the right thing

How has violence affected my life? Violence affects my life because it just makes me cry sometimes. To see other people kill them self and each other like it doesn't even matter it really does because deep inside you really care about that person and may just get you mad sometimes but you really care about them deep inside.

Let me ask you a question now why would you do that? Do people think it's ok to kill others? No will I don't think so because you can't just hate a person for doing one thing. You need to respect the fact that it true and don't be afraid to do it. Love your self for it. Don't be like ohh this person emberrased me now every one is making fun of me. Now I should kill that person so they could love me and forget about that. No No No but you know deep inside you care so why? I know you care about that person but on the out side you hate them. Maybe that person is like a sister/brother to you and that's because they are telling you to change by saying rude things to you that gets you annoyed that you just want to change it.

What are some causes of youth violence?

Most violence happens because of drugs and that's because some people true things really seriously and they get sick and tired of it so and they kill them self cause they think...
Everyone hates them so yeah. And there no reason for that not to be rude or any thing but it's only one person that said that not a lot. Ohh I see what makes you kill yourself because other people are just whacking and not doing anything about it and you are just like wow no one cares about me. But deep inside you know you care about you so why would you do it? That's my question.
You know that's a huge problem. That's what drama causes and you know what I hate drama because everyone in one person's side and you just heard alone. They would be gossiping about you like it's the right thing to do but it's really not. And I hate to see a person left out because it's not fair. It's just not fair at all because that person may be crying in the inside but you won't see it but you could still tell by the looks on there faces cause I can and they must be thinking that no one likes them so that's why I hate it. It just do fair thought before saying something about that person. Meet them first and you'll see what a good friend they are because I wouldn't go around talking about a person I really didn't meet so yeah. Cyber bully is another one (not good)

What can I do about youth violence?
So what you could do is tell a person about this don't not keep it in mind so just got to let it out. Another thing you could do is take away that guns. Don't Walk in the streets at night that's because it's not safe. Stop bullying also stop cyber bully, stand up to bullies stay strong. Never give up and also remember just do you. That how we do the right thing.
