HAMPshire Gazette.

Vol. XI. No. 2080.

Northampton, Mass., Wednesday, July 12, 1826.

Two Dollars per annum.

Sylvester Judd, Jr., Publisher.

T. Watson Shepard, Printer.

From the North American Review.

The fee of $100 to be deposited in a system of public education, is a subject of great importance, and deserves the attention of all who have any thing to do with the children and youth of this country. It is the duty of every parent and political leader to support education, and the fee of $100 should be considered as a necessary and indispensable part of the funds required for the support of public schools.

The amount of $100 is not excessive, but it is only a small part of the cost of education, and is not sufficient to provide for the maintenance of the schools. It is also not sufficient to provide for the support of the teachers, and to make the schools accessible to all who desire to receive an education.

The fee of $100 is a step in the right direction, but it is not sufficient to provide for the support of public education. It is necessary to have a larger sum of money, and to have a system of education that will provide for the maintenance of the schools, and for the support of the teachers.

The amount of $100 is only a beginning, and it is necessary to have a system of education that will provide for the maintenance of the schools, and for the support of the teachers. It is necessary to have a larger sum of money, and to have a system of education that will provide for the maintenance of the schools, and for the support of the teachers.