Violence causes sometimes bully, fight, that why some people start to fight because bully. Bully start almost always violence. The friends can make you a bad boy or a bad girl, because you can make you go to use drugs, tobacco, and alcohol. That can make a lot of violence using arms to kill or use to fight. Violence most of the parent that stuck up that don't love their sons, like don't pay attention to them that why their sons feel like (without attention), then they do things like steal and go out with gangs. All this things make up the violence, drugs, tobacco, alcohol, gangs, fight, steal, and without attention.
I could see that violence has affected my life and the lives of those in my generation in many ways. I suffer because of increased crime and violence against kids. Teenagers in the generation before us could play outside all days as long as they made it home before the street lights came on. Increased violence has forever changed the way we live. As a teenager, I know that we need to have a sense of identity and we need attention.

Violence is not the answer. Help is what you seek. Stop the violence. Be unique.
These types of statistics have lead government officials to take initiative in trying to prevent youth violence. Although death of a youngster is the most severe consequence, youth violence also has lasting effects on victims, their families, friends and communities. Solutions to youth violence are complex but here are prevention strategies that can help. The youngster who is feeling hurt and sad might feel that the only way she or him can earn respect and solve her problem is through violence. Things that you can do to stop a fight is: learning to take a "time out" and walk away; and finding ways to talk to oneself when anger arises. In this way, future youth gang violence can be prevented.
