March 4, 2013

Violence

I feel like violence should not be apart of peoples daily lives because they would be in gangs and be on drugs. When people get into gangs, they don’t really want to be bullied by anyone, but when they join, they don’t think of what might happen to them. They would just join. They want to join because they was bullied and they were done with that. So then they join a gang to bullied other people now. When people join the gangs they get on drugs and try to feel good about themselves, but they just hurting themselves by doing things like that.

I am effected by violence in the places that I walk. One day I was effected by violence. Before this me and my brothers were watching t.v. Then we heard yelling it was about oatmeal that was crazy. At my house people were using verbal abuse and being abused, there was a lot of things happening. That day me and my brothers try to do something about it.
Exercise

I feel that my goals are not being met.

I need more freedom to pursue my interests.

I'm struggles with feeling overwhelmed.

I need more support and encouragement.

I feel isolated and disconnected.

I need more opportunities to express my feelings.

I feel like I'm not making progress.

I need more guidance and direction.

I feel like I'm not being valued.

I need more recognition for my hard work.

I feel like I'm not being heard.

I need more opportunities to connect with others.

I feel like I'm not being challenged enough.

I need more opportunities to stretch my abilities.

I feel like I'm not being supported emotionally.

I need more opportunities to express my emotions.

I feel like I'm not being challenged intellectually.

I need more opportunities to engage my mind.

I feel like I'm not being supported financially.

I need more opportunities to earn money.

I feel like I'm not being supported physically.

I need more opportunities to take care of my body.

I feel like I'm not being supported creatively.

I need more opportunities to express my creativity.

I feel like I'm not being supported spiritually.

I need more opportunities to explore my beliefs.

I feel like I'm not being supported socially.

I need more opportunities to connect with others.

I feel like I'm not being supported vocationally.

I need more opportunities to pursue my career goals.

I feel like I'm not being supported personally.

I need more opportunities to express my individuality.
that could help them to stop fighting. It effects me in school because when people just fight even though there are good friends. They just fight because they want to or because of what someone said to someone about you.

Youth violence starts when people join gangs, drink alcohol or smoke. The most thing people do is get into fights because they don't care about what might happen to them whether they're 15 or older. It's still bad for you. When the youth violence starts its in gangs. They walk around smoking marijuana, walking around with their pants hanging low. Sometimes they drink alcohol and act crazy. By starting to fight young boys that they don't even know, they fight with women/girls. When they drink they start to fight. They start feeling bad because they seen other people that was his friends getting beat up. They get angry because they don't like to be bullied by other people. I think they have a right to be angry because their the ones getting jumped.

What I could do about the youth violence is first see what happened, second I would see how it started, lastly I would tell them to talk about it, tell what really happened, why did it happen thing like that. I think to when things like that happen they really should talk about it because they could resolve the problem that they had with each other. Then maybe they could become friends after they talk about it. It's more better to talk than to not talk.

How I could fix the problems to be a good role model to kids. One thing I could do is to talk to people that I see fighting, drinking or people who are getting bullied, when people join gangs they get on drugs and they try to feel good about them selves but there not there just hurting themselves by doing things like that. I feel violence shouldn't be a part of someone's life while they are growing up because they would get use to it and never stop and then they might die from being in gangs, smoking and drinking alcohol. This is not a good idea because when you do things like that you get effected by it because you might get beat up being in a gang. People could have a better life if they don't do these things, don't join gangs, don't drink and definitely don't smoke.