I wonder...I wonder why? Why do people fight? Why do people bully other people? Why do other people make other people feel bad about themselves? I wonder...

I wonder why? I try to look through these nasty evil people. I try to understand. I try to think and understand what's making them behave this way. I wonder if they're going through some stuff. Why do those people act like that? I still don't have the answer to all my questions. But what I do know is violence is not going to solve nothing.
