Kids these days are growing around a lot of violence and that is really affecting them because they think that bullying is something that they can be spared of. I see bullying a lot and I try to help whenever I can but still is not changing nothing because the next day the bully is going to bully the kid again.