Violence

Violence is a physical force where the purpose of it is violating, damaging, or abusing. There's violence in my life but there's definitely one problem that I won't forget. There was a girl that got ran over by a car on their way to school. They weren't buzzed and didn't look both ways. It was violent because now there's damaged. They won't ever feel the same about there body again.

The driver said "If I had never heard a big boom then I would've kept driving." He had just been new on the road. When you're on the road you always have to pay attention to where you're going. That's the basic process of driving. When you don't pay attention it causes a consequence. When you do something wrong it's always hard to get out of it.

This has affected my life because sometimes I don't feel safe walking anymore. I feel like once I cross the street a car is automatically coming even if I look and no cars are there. We can stop this if we have better drivers in this world. Make a change so bodies won't end up hurt anymore.
