VIOLENCE IN MY LIFE!

Violence has affected my life by seeing close friends participate in gangs, seen women get beaten by men. A lot of violence I seen that makes me pray every night that this world could be a better place where kids can go outside and play with his/her friend and does not have to worry about people shooting.

One day my mom got home from work she was down stairs in the lobby waiting for the elevator then out of nowhere a man comes dragging a woman by the hair. Then the man picks the women up and starts beating her with his fist in her face. The man keeps beating her. The man takes a breath outside my mom then quickly turns around asks her “do you need help? Want me to call the ambulance, or the police?” The women answers by saying “no” the man comes back inside and asks the women “want to act tuff when your around people when you talking to me”? Then again starts beating her with his fist. My mom goes upstairs first thing she does is pick up the phone and calls the police. I looked outside and all I see is one ambulance and two police cars and a paddy wagon. The man was being dragged but he got away and started running but the police men got him they put him inside a paddy wagon and took him away. The ambulance took the women away. Next morning I wake up and my mom sends me to the store. I go outside and on the floor there’s a lot of glass I look up there is broken window. I guess the man tried to throw the women out the 5th floors window.
Change is good for any of us but you see to get to that point we need to start making changes sometimes I think to myself if you came from a woman what makes you think you can put your hands on one. We all need change we need to stop the drug dealing, gangbanging, killing, I'm not saying I could change the world... but it would be a good feeling it would be an awesome to know that kids can play outside whenever they want
