Violence In My Life

How has Violence Affected My Life? Violence affected my life when I was about 6 or 7 years old I heard 3 gunshots. Me and my sister were walking and saw the body on the wall bleeding. I got scared. My sister tried to see if he was still alive he was breathing but unconscious when we went home and told my mother. She called the police and told them where it happened. 2-3 minutes all I heard were the sounds of police cars, ambulance trucks, and the sound of civilians screaming. After my mother found out the man died on the way to the hospital, I couldn’t believe I thought it would be a normal walk but instead, it was a violently murder that I witnessed. Instead, that’s how violence has affected my life.

What are the causes of youth violence? The causes of youth violence are jealousy, gangs, and bullying. Being in gangs or groups just means your looking for trouble being in gangs can get you killed. Being jealous doesn’t mean you have to have something or to kill over or fight over. Being a bully doesn’t make you big and it makes you a jerk. Careless person. Those are the causes of youth violence. What can I do about youth violence? I can try to break gangs and let them know there not doing the right thing with their lives. Will jealousy they don’t need what someone else was they need to find away to get over it. Instead of killing & fighting like get something. That’s better to you or get your own. Bullying cruel terrible bullying can stop by talking to the bully.
and getting to his problem so they don't cause problems for others. That is the violence in my life. The causes of violence and how I can make less violence.
