"Violence"

Violence is a very horrible thing anyone can experience and I think its the worst thing ever. I think instead of others solving their problems by committing crimes and unnecessary things that cause trouble. They should go to a youth group to talk about anything they have in mind.

Crimes like murder should be lead to life for life, which means if you murder someone, you have taken their life away and you should serve life in prison.

I've witnessed violence before with my father and brother. They got into an argument then a physical fight, when things got worse my dad grabbed a knife and practically came at him with it until me, my mom and sister stopped the fight. The argument was pointless and could have been avoided if my dad had just listened. But like always he doesn't. I was the only one who got hurt in the process of stopping the fight. My mom told my dad to get out and he did few minutes later.
It was the worst experience ever.
I was crying and so was my mom.

The day after my mom had hid all the knives and anything he can use against us as a weapon.
My mom is worried that my dad might do something to my brother because he is angry with my dad. Violence isn't the answer for anything even if you're very angry.
