Vio
cence Paper

The generation in which we live in is full of violence. That violence leads to fights. They start drama and that leads to fights. It seems as if all this people care about is fighting and popularity.

I don't see a similarity, both are non-important things that shouldn't matter, but in this generation it's all that matters. They fight cute guys, and to be honest it is a waste of time.

Many of them end up in hospitals, some even dead. Why fight instead of talking about it?

Parents, friends, media those cause violence these days. They may not think about it but they should. Parents may hit their children so they think it's ok but it's really not. Friends corrupt people making them do stuff so they can "fit in." The media always showing violence and fights if you ask me that's a waste of time.

Together we can make a change, and make this world a better place. We need to stop the hate and start the love. Those, the people that fight need to stop and think. They need to think about who their friends are and how they act. If there is violence at home get some help.

If people have problems with someone fighting, is not the answer, it never has, it never will.
