The Struggle

Violence happens all around the world and a lot of people have experienced it. Violence isn't good but it happens everyday of any time of the world. Anybody can cause it. You have to be careful in life and try not have any problems with anyone because there is consequences. Even if you started it or not, I have experienced many things and saw many things that involved violence. The violence that I would like to share how to do with my uncle. This kind of violence has affected my life because it is now breaching my family apart. Things had changed very quickly since that very day, and it is very very devastating. I see that my uncle is now suffering from what he had done. He is becoming very lonely that his doing things that he is not suppose to do. He did something when he was younger that he now regrets et. What he did was that he raped his younger sister (my aunt). I don't really know why he really did it, but I do know that he wished he hadn't. He is very depressed, even my aunts made her children disrespect and not listen to him. They are treating him like he is not family. It's a terrible thing to do because the children had no part in it and don't know what really happen. I had seen the disrespect towards him happen many times but I can't do anything about it because they don't listen. And my uncle is not the only one that suffers from this disrespect, not so does my grandmother, she doesn't like for her children to be arguing, she wants them to be peaceful and quiet. My auntie just don't get it. My grandmother is disappointed because the family is falling apart, well only them two but it stills none everyone else

My uncle hangs out with the wrong people that influence him to do the bad things. Those people are his so called "friends" that are helping him destroy his life. My uncle had once robbed the bank because he didn't know what else to do. He been in jail many times for stupid things. Right now at this very moment he is back there once again. Some of my family worry about him and hope for the best.

There are many ways there is bullying in this non-fictional story. He had no consequences for what he did, the only thing my auntie should do is forgive and forget, though it doesn't seem like she is willing to do that. The only reason he is doing this terrible things is because he feels unloved. I am just hoping that one day my aunt will be able to forgive my uncle and reconcile with family once again so we can be a happy family like we once been.

One of the causes was that hangs out with the wrong people. They influence him to do the wrong things. Sometimes he gets in trouble for the things his "friends" do. If they were good friends, they would try to help him fix things with his sister. My auntie is also one of the causes for what he does. She disrespects him and makes him feel like he is not welcome and doesn't belong in the family. He also drinks which isn't a good thing. You can get so drunk that you have no idea what you're doing. It had cause him to do the wrong things.

There are many ways that can help solve this situation. My auntie can forgive and forgive, and act like nothing happened. There could be a family reunion/meeting to discuss what happen and why it happen. We can get my uncle and my aunt to talk so they can try to solve it on their own.
